Sommelier's Selection

Highlighting some of the hidden gems on the list.

2000 Pol Roger Brut, Epernay Champagne $200

This is Champagne with a very open character, a wine of rich golden hues and aromatic intensity. Brioche and sweet pasties aromas create a seductive Champagne which in turn is bolstered and balanced by exotic tropical fruit and mouth-watering acidity on the palate. Pol Roger has produced a Champagne that has it all; softness, charm, fullness and most importantly, finesse.

2009 Domaine de L'Arjolle Farandole Southern France $65

There is a lot of pretension in wine. This wine from Southern France is antithesis to all that. An embodiment of fun and experimentation, it is made from a blend of sauvignon blanc, viognier and muscat. Fermented without oak the ensuing wine is light and vibrant with aromas of citrus and stone fruits accentuating the crisp dry palate.

2009 Man O'War Chardonnay Valhalla, Waiheke $95

Made from fastidiously selecting the finest grapes in the vineyard this wine offers rich ripe fruit flavours, balanced with a vibrant acidity and toasty nut oak characters. In short a beautifully made wine from one of New Zealand's premier wine regions.

2006 Nevis Bluff Pinot Noir, Central Otago $90

Central Otago has over the years developed a strong reputation for the production of great pinot noirs. This wine has all the charms of an Otago pinot yet with that extra bottle age is offering spice and dried herb aromatics alongside the expected dense ripe dark fruits on the palate.

August Clape Wines, Cornas Rhône

It is said that one cannot talk about the great wine producers of France without mentioning August Clape who meticulously hand crafts wines from 100% syrah grapes in Cornas, Northern Rhône. Clape, a staunchly traditionalist winemaker produces wines with a rigid masculine firmness and rusticity that sets them apart from others in the region. The 2004 Cornas ($290) exhibits herbal tobacco notes on the nose with leather and black olive on the palate all of which is underscored by a fine tannic structure. The 2007 Cornas Renaissance ($225) made from younger vines not incorporated into the top label has a similar structure and yet in its relative youth is still seductively approachable. The Côtes du Rhônes offer a comparatively inexpensive introduction to Clape's wines being made from fruit either from young Cornas vines or vines falling outside the Cornas appellation. The 2009 ($145) is full of youthful exuberance, upfront spice and vibrant fruit. In contrast the 2005 ($160) displays a complex and developed palate of leather and spice all buttressed by aromatic hints of black tea.
